What's Happening To Our Countryside?

The bus shelter opposite the school was re-glazed at the Parish Council's request just before Christmas. In no time at all it was vandalised once again. Where do the mindless yobbos who do this sort of thing come from?

Shortly after Christmas this load of rubbish was dumped overnight in Stoney Lane. Among the discarded items were three Calor Gas cylinders. The police were contacted as the load spread into the lane and was a traffic hazard. To their credit, the police arranged for it to be cleared within a few hours. Quiet lanes, of which there are plenty in our area, are an easy target for fly-tippers. Please be on the look-out for this kind of anti-social behaviour.

See p 4 for details of whom to contact should you have anything suspicious or anti-social to report.

The Quest continues....

Once more we come to the end of another year and that Roman coin still eludes us so we look forward to success maybe this year. Interesting finds overall have been a bit scarce in general due to both work commitments and availability of suitable sites to search. Just recently, though, I was contacted by our esteemed editor to help find a very important lost family heirloom. Fortunately Gloria had marked an area on a nearby footpath where the item was thought to have been lost in the grass. After a few minutes of searching the item was found and returned. The item? Robin and Gloria's grandson's toy car which looks just like grandad's big car.

It's nice to have had at least one success last year.

Most of the written history of Delamere appears to start with the Iron Age Hillfort and then the Romans came etc. This is due to the fact that there are not many documented finds that pre-date this and without evidence you can only make assumptions. Until now that is. Whilst out walking some local fields detecting, I picked up a number of interesting stones. During a trip to the museum a couple of years ago with a collection of finds the archaeologist took one particular piece from the bottom of the box and informed me that it was a piece of flint from a Neolithic knife. During the last couple of years I have found in excess of 140 pieces, mainly flakes and chips but there are some actual tools. The high number of finds has prompted a visit by archaeologists to the find sites. They are now in the process of writing a full report which I hope to write about later this year, though it has been 2 years in the making already. Initial thoughts are that the items are both Neolithic and Mesolithic and could have belonged to groups of nomadic tribes who went from site to site in search of food. This would date some of the items as old as 5000BC. Attached are a few pictures that make up just a small part of the collection. This should provide proof of the first residents of Delamere.

Alan Knowles.

Delamere School Community Classes

Let's Go Salsa....

The community evening classes organized by Delamere School have got off to a flying start. Both Pilates & Salsa classes have been well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all participants.

The Salsa classes have been so popular that a second class has been set up to accommodate the numbers wishing to attend; and there is the possibility of a third class on its way.

Already the students from both disciplines have shown their eagerness for the classes to be continued. Therefore the school is continuing the classes after the half term break. The classes will run for five weeks again at the same price. The start dates for the new classes are:

- Salsa - Monday 18th February.
- Pilates - Wednesday 20th February.

If you missed the first set of classes it's not too late to join in! If you require more information on either of these classes please contact Julie Marlow on 01606 882740.

The Saturday Watercolour Workshop was also a great success, and an ideal setting for budding artists! Don Wilson has kindly offered to run another one on Saturday 8th March. Again, if you're interested in joining the class, contact Julie Marlow on 01606 882740. There is a maximum of 10 places available, so early booking is essential.

There has been a delay in starting the Junior Sports Club on Saturday mornings because the coach, Scott Williams, had to go in hospital for a small operation. He is now recovering. The new planned start date is Saturday 16th February.

All classes require advanced booking and payment to ensure that there are the correct pupil/ teacher ratios and that the classes are not overcrowded.

Julie Marlow.

The Watercolour Workshop...

I found the morning very relaxing and the tuition, including individual attention and advice, first class. We were fortunate to have such a patient instructor.

Based on Don's own beautiful watercolour of a Lake District scene, we learnt how to produce cloud formation and use the side of a brush for the rocks in the foreground.

Each stage was carefully dried by Don using his hairdryer. He was relieved not to have affected the school's computers and I had the idea that perhaps we could have doubled up as a hair salon!

As one who was advised at school not to pursue an Art course I was very glad I decided to join the course.

Gloria Ackerley.

There is a booking form for all the school community activities near the end of this Newsletter.

School News

During half term the school will be having a new cookery area installed in Class 2 and the children will get the chance to be a Junior Chef for the day.

After Easter an animation expert will be coming into school to show the children how to make and edit their own films.

The Delamere School Travel Plan Group have been working hard on developing a travel plan for the school. This contains a two-year action plan of measures to improve road safety, to reduce congestion and pollution by using more sustainable methods of transport and to improve children's health and fitness. In the summer term the school will be running a "Let's Bike" scheme to teach children about cycling proficiency. The travel plan grant will be spent on improving the school facilities with secure cycle storage, a parent waiting shelter and possible minibus transport. Other fun initiatives planned include a car-free day during Walk to School Week and a family cycling event in the forest.

Gas for Delamere and Oakmere?

A number of people have enquired about the possibility of a gas supply being brought to the area.

It seems there are no plans at present, though there remains a chance of it coming to the more closely inhabited areas at some date in the future.

Delamere Stores

Owner Lee Cartwright has reported a rise in sales, particularly of fruit and vegetables, since the publicity in the last issue of this Newsletter, but, with the imminent loss of the post office, the future of the stores must remain in some doubt.

Please continue to support your local shop. It's in everybody's interest to keep it open.

Fishpool Junction

There have been several accidents, including some serious ones, at this junction recently. Both Delamere and Oakmere Parish Councils have expressed their concern.

Cheshire County Council Highways Authority has now stated that a safety improvement scheme is "on the drawing board". Precisely what this means and how much urgency it has attached to the matter, however, is unclear.

Anyone who has used the junction regularly will be aware of the danger, particularly when attempting to cross from Abbey Lane to Fishpool Road.

New Caravan Site in Fishpool Road

Despite strong objections from three local Parish Councils – Delamere, Oakmere and Utkinton – and despite a petition signed by over 70 local residents, an application for a caravan site at Fishpool Farm was approved by Vale Royal Borough Council Planning Committee at a meeting just before Christmas.

When ready for occupation, the site will have pitches for up to 54 “touring” caravans and will officially be allowed to remain open for 11 months in the year. It is understood that occupants will be permitted a stay of no more than three weeks’ duration.....

Oakmere Parish Council

At the January meeting Mr Ron Billows was co-opted onto the council and received a warm welcome. He replaces Mr Philip Cowap, who resigned in the early autumn owing to the heavy pressures of an expanding business. Philip has been missed, as his modern approach to the council’s debates on financial or planning matters has been an asset. Ron Billows will bring a fresh new dimension to the discussions. As a full-time police officer his knowledge of life, both bad and good, will prove invaluable.

A further vacancy has arisen following the resignation recently of Mr Eric Hodgson. Eric has served the council faithfully for many years. Having been a career administrator in the N.H.S. and also a magistrate, he was a ‘people person’. Now in retirement his skills are in ever greater demand, and something had to go. It was with great reluctance that his resignation was accepted.

The vacancy on Oakmere Parish Council has been advertised in the statutory way and no applications have come forward. Vale Royal has now given clearance for co-option. If at all possible the council likes to have a representative from every part of the parish. At present there is no one from east of Stonyford and Hogshead Lanes to the A49. If you are at all interested and reside anywhere in Oakmere, please contact the Parish Clerk, Mrs Mary Carter, on 01606 883654. She will tell you what is involved.

From My Window

During December the bird population feeding on the ground and bird tables increased dramatically. I saw six blackbirds chasing each other and another male with white stripes on his head and back was chased away by the others and hasn’t returned. Yellowhammers, mainly ground feeders, returned and goldfinches came to the niger seed feeder.

Robins love mealworms and their beautiful song continues throughout the day until darkness falls. Woody woodpecker is still a regular visitor, tapping away on the old wooden post. Tree sparrows are in greater numbers this winter. Chaffinches and greenfinches are doing well.

I had quite a surprise one morning when putting out seed – a little chap on the ground sitting bolt upright. He had a white chest. I said, “And who are you?” He gave me one last look and ran off. Could he have been a stoat? He was only the size of a rat.

Magpies and jays are such thieves and I am worried about baby birds and eggs in the spring.

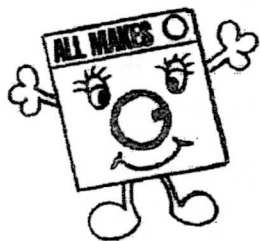

There are now a pair of squirrels still being a pest. What I thought was a black bin bag high in a tree on closer inspection turned out to be a dray, a huge nest which looked to be made of straw.

Amazingly daffodils have been in flower since late December.

Desirable Property on Abbey Hill

Easily visible and set just off the main road as you go up Abbey Hill is this tumbledown dwelling. It's stood empty and unloved for as long as I can remember (well over sixty years, that is), though I do remember John Wright, Contractors of Kelsall, having a sign at the front, I think in the 50s or 60s.

I tried consulting some of Delamere's more senior citizens, but no one could tell me much about its history. Mary Rutter of Rectory Farm believed someone once lived there, possibly in the 1930s, but it was certainly never intended for human habitation.

Trying to find out more I climbed over the stile and discovered another building, an older sandstone hut (a secluded, old world property estate agents would no doubt call it), a few yards further up the hill and hidden from the road, which I never even knew existed. This too lacked the usual modern conveniences, including a roof.

I know from an historical interest point of view this article can't rank with Alan Knowles's archaeological discoveries, but it would be nice to find out more about the building's origins. Can anyone throw any light on the mystery?
